1224 - 1242 Bishop Andrew confirms the eight canonries created by his predecessor Bishop Bricius and to them adds a ninth - Strathouen {Stratha'an} for the Chancellor and also the 'simple' prebend of Fothervais which, for the time being, is to be held by the Bishop. The prebends are listed: Ryny; Dunbanan & Kynnor; Inuerketheny; Elechyn & Buttharry; the garbal tiends of Muy; Cromdale & Advie; Kyngusy & Inch; Croyn & Lunyn; 'Centum Solidorum' of {from} the altarage of St Giles. They are all to have a manse close to the cathedral with a croft.

There are also two Hebdomedaries {appointed weekly} - a deacon who is to read the Gospel; a sub-deacon who is to read the Epistle.

The canon of Croy is to be the bishop's Vicar.

The prebends of the major office bearers in the Chapter are detailed.

The Chapter is to be governed according to the 'uses of Lincoln'.

The other prebends are recorded along with their benefactors.

John	Spalding, de Canon	1253	Registrum Episcopatus Moraviensis	145

1253 - 1298 Johannes de Spalding canon of Moray and prebendary of Duffus, has given, granted and by this his present charter assigned in perpetuity to his successors succeeding him in the prebend of Duffus, or to in-coming canons, his house or his building within the chanonry of Elgin, which he previously built in the land which he bought from the heirs of William Vtrearii {Glazier}, which Archibald, the bishop, the dean and the chapter of Moray agreed to, invested upon him and his assignees by their ring, and introduced him into the corporal possession of, that his successor, whoever he may be, will be responsible for rendering to the chapter or their procurator for the house, twenty shillings of sterling every year during the feast of the Nativity of the blessed John the Baptist for distribution among the canons, vicars and ministers of the church that will appear present on the day of the anniversary of John of Spalding's death in the vigils and mass, whenever it may occur during the year, excluding absent or tardy and untimely arrivals. The dean, or whichever canon will celebrate the mass of the anniversary of his death, should receive a double portion of the altar of the canon, and each canon should have a double portion of the vicarage dues, while each vicar or chaplain of the chapel of the church should have a double portion of the vicarage dues of the dean or sacrist every year. Additionally, John wishes that if anyone should forget the vigil and not in the mass, or should forget the mass and not in the vigil, he should be provided with half of what he is owed. Additionally, his successor, whomever he may be, will sufficiently sustain the building and will restore it at his expense, lest it should fall apart and the whole manor, with the buildings, should fall into disrepair, and his successor will oblige and swear to the chapter that all of this will be done.

Granted in the Chapter House of the Cathedral at Elgin {no date completed}.

John Spalding, de	Canon	1304	Calendar of Documents Relating to Scotland, Vol. ii.	434
1304 - His 'hoste' of Elgin, John de Spauyding (of Spalding), canon of Elgin, prays his lord the king (Edward I) that he would give him 20 oaks in his forest of Launde Morgund {Longmorn} to build his church of Duffus, whereof he is canon. [CDS, ii, no. 1629] Spalding's claim to be Edward's 'host' probably comes from the fact that Edward stayed at Spalding's manse (of Duffus) in September 1303 (Watt, Graduates, 500)
William Forestarii	Canon	1382	Papal Letters to Scotland of Clement VII of Avignon	74
25 Jan - To the official.Ab. Mandate to reserve to William Forestarii, priest, archdeacon of Caithness, who has studied canon law for two years at Paris, aa benefice usually assigned to the secular clergy in the gift of the bishop, prior, and chapter of St Andrews, together or separately, to the value of 60 marks sterling with cure, or 18 marks sterling without cure, on condition that he resigns the archdeaconry upon obtaining peaceful possession. William is known to have been presented to a canonry of Moray and the prebend of Duffous by the lay patron, but this has not been confirmed by the bishop and so he intends to take legal action. Avignon, 8 Kal. Feb., anno 4.
John Hugonis	Canon	1398	Registrum Episcopatus Moraviensis	327
1398 (1 August) In a charter of the bishop of Moray, it is said that John Hugonis had been at the Roman Curia for some time prosecuting the election of the bishop of Moray (William). He was also prebendary of Duffus at this time. Because he was at the Curia he had been unable to present a replacement to the perpetual vicarage of Duffus following the death of the previous incumbent, Johannis de Arde. John de Keith, lord of Innerugy, had attempted to appoint Alexander Barbas, a chaplain, to the said vicarage, but the bishop blocked the move, underlining that the right of presentation belonged to the prebendary of Duffus. John	Innes, de	1398	Registrum Episcopatus Moraviensis	327

1398 (1 August) - Bishop William writes to Johanni Hugonis, dean of Christiandy of Elgin deanery. The perpetual vicarage of Duffus is 'de jure et de facto' vacant because of the death of Johanni de Arde. The canon prebendary {of Duffus}, Johanni de Innes, has been at the Roman Curia prosecuting the bishop's election and so, the bishop has not been in a position to present a perpetual vicar to Duffus in the canon's absence. He now confirms the canon's rights, particularly his right to nominate an individual to the bishop for presentation to the perpetual vicarage.

John	Busby, de	Canon	1423	Scottish Supplications to Rome 1423-1428	38

1 October, 1423

It is represented for the part of John de Busby, priest, Glasgow diocese, counsellor of the Governor of Scotland, and his procurator in the Roman Court, that formerly a bargain of exchange was made between him, holding the canonry and prebend of Dishus [Duffus] in the Church of Moray, and John de Erskyn, holding the canonry and prebend of Camsy and the chancellorship of the Church of Glasgow. It happened that on the voidance of the parish church of Egilsham, Glasgow diocese, John de Busby was presented thereto by John de Montegomerii, knight, to whom the presentation belonged, and was instituted by the Ordinary: and afterwards when the said John de Erskyn refused to exchange the foresaid canonry and prebend and chancellorship for the said canonry and prebend of Moray, John Busby had John Erskyn presented to the said Knight for the above parish church, in exchange for the said canonry and prebend and chancellorship. But a pact was made beforehand upon oath between the said John Busby and the Knight, to the effect that John Busby would give the fruits of the church [of Egilsham] for its erection into a collegiate church, or other revenues to the same value as long as John Erskyn lived, and he also agreed with John Erskyn that as long he lived he should employ the fruits of the said canonry and prebend and chancellorship. When John de Erskyn wished to make another exchange with Thomas de Graham, archdeacon of Dunblane, the said John Busby hindered it, promising to the Governor of Scotland for the sake of peace to resign the said canonry and prebend of Moray after the death of John Erskyn in favour of Thomas [Busby resigned Duffus in favour of Graham before 28 Feb 1420]. Also, after John Busby by exchange had obtained peaceable possession of the chancellorship with the canonry and prebend annexed, he paid 40 marks Scots to John de Erskyn for the jurisdiction of the said prebend of Camsy; and he promised John Erskyn the fruits of the said chancellorship with the fruits of the said parish church for life, and swore that in whatever necessity or debility the said John Erskyn might be placed he would never suffer lack but John Busby would divide the goods equally between them, and he swore in good faith that he would always be well disposed (gratus) to the friends and kindred of John Erskyn and that he would faithfully fulfil all the other things foresaid. Whereupon an exchange was made in the hands of the Ordinary between John de Busby and John de Erskyn of the foresaid parish church and the canonry, prebend and chancellorship; and the said John Busby obtained peaceable possession of the above canonry, prebend and chancellorship. But since the pact and promises are said to be illicit and simoniacal, and since the said John has resigned the above canonry, prebend and chancellorship in Curia, and has renounced his right to the same (anent which he has been litigating) in the hands of the Auditor of the cause, and after he had possessed them for many years, taking up the fruits and fulfilling the foresaid pact and promises in whole or in part; therefore for the part of the said John Busby it is supplicated that the Pope would absolve him from all stain of irregularity, etc., and also from his oath and promise, would habilitate him and restore him to his pristine state, remitting the fruits taken up, and would dispense him to hold the said canonry, prebend and chancellorship dimitted by him and whatsoever other incompatible ecclesiastical benefices: notwithstanding an annual pension of 50 marks Scots for life from the fruits of the said canonry, prebend and chancellorship of Glasgow, confirming anew the assignation of the said pension.

12 August, 1430 On Prid. Non. May, anno 9 [6 May, 1426] Pope dispensed John de Benyng, then vicar of Lintrachin, St Andrews diocese, M.A., that as son of a priest and an unmarried woman he might hold along with said vicarage four other compatible benefices with power of exchange as often as he pleased. But John fears that said grace and letters thereanent may be surreptitious because no mention was made of an Expectative Grace formerly granted by Pope anent a canonry of Moray with reservation of a prebend and of a benefice in collation of bishop of St Andrews and of prior and chapter of St Andrews, with dispensation for defect of birth. Lest he lose effect of these letters and dispensation, he supplicates that Pope would declare them to be valid from their date as if full and due mention had been made of above Expectative Grace and dispensation, and that he holds vicarages of Kirkpatrick and Lichte, Glasgow and St Andrews dioceses, through another apostolic dispensation, also canonry and prebend of Daffans in church of Moray (total, £80 sterling). Concessum ut petitur. 15 July, 1432 Commissio Privationis Formerly, on voidance of parish church of Strabrok, St Andrews diocese, of lay patronage, a certain William Middilmaste, alleged vicar of parish church of Selkirk, Glasgow diocese, made a promise that a certain kinsman, John Middilmast, should obtain said church of Strabrok, and he gave a sum of money and arranged with his kinsman that after obtaining it peaceably he should resign it at will and mandate of William. Thus simony has been incurred and William has rendered himself unworthy of said vicarage and of canonry and prebend of Duffows in church of Moray, of lay patronage. It is supplicated for part of John Benning, M.A., that Pope would give mandate to some good man in Roman Court or 'in partibus' to inform himself 'simpliciter' anent the foregoing, and if he find as above he deprive William of said canonry and prebend and all right therein (£20 sterling) and provide said John to the same, even if void by resignation of late Alan Stewart or of John Beninj: notwithstanding litigation anent church of Lithow. 13 August, 1432

Formerly John Benyng, M.A., of Paris, secretary of James king of Scots, held the perpetual vicarages of the parish churches of Kirkpatrick and Linlothai, Glasgow and St Andrews diocese, also the canonry and prebend of Duffhous in the church of Moray (of lay patronage, although it is alleged by some that the right of patronage of the canonry and prebend pertains alternately to the bishop of Moray). On 20 January, anno 14 [1431] Pope absolved him on demission of these benefices from inhability, and on the same date granted him provision of the same. But for about a year and six months he has retained the above vicarages, canonry and prebend without provision as the letters anent the vicarage of Kirkpatrick are not yet expedited and those anent the vicarage of Linlichen and the canonry and prebend were not expedited for about a year and five months. John has thereby contracted inhability; therefore John Wencosder, priest, B.Dec., supplicates that Pope would provide him to vicarage of Linletheu and canonry and prebend foresaid (total, £60 sterling), void as above or in whatsoever way, or the vicarage still void by death of Patrick Howson or cession at Roman Court of John Kirkton, alleged priest, Glasgow diocese, or the canonry and prebend void by resignation of late Alan Stewart, prebendary and possessor in hands of the ordinary, notwithstanding canonry and prebend of Awncrum in church of Glasgow, which he holds (£15 sterling), anent which and the parish church of Kilmanny, St Andrews diocese, which he does not possess (£60 sterling), he is litigating in Apostolic Palace in the first instance without conclusion, and that lately Pope granted him provision of canonry and prebend of church of Methlaik in church of Aberdeen, of lay patronage (£25 sterling).

13 August, 1432

Formerly John Benyng, M.A., of Paris, secretary of James king of Scots, held the perpetual vicarages of the parish churches of Kirkpatrick and Linlothai, Glasgow and St Andrews diocese, also the canonry and prebend of Duffhous in the church of Moray (of lay patronage, although it is alleged by some that the right of patronage of the canonry and prebend pertains alternately to the bishop of Moray). On 20 January, anno 14 [1431] Pope absolved him on demission of these benefices from inhability, and on the same date granted him provision of the same. But for about a year and six months he has retained the above vicarages, canonry and prebend without provision as the letters anent the vicarage of Kirkpatrick are not yet expedited and those anent the vicarage of Linlichen and the canonry and prebend were not expedited for about a year and five months. John has thereby contracted inhability; therefore John Wencosder, priest, B.Dec., supplicates that Pope would provide him to vicarage of Linletheu and canonry and prebend foresaid (total, £60 sterling), void as above or in whatsoever way, or the vicarage still void by death of Patrick Howson or cession at Roman Court of John Kirkton, alleged priest, Glasgow diocese, or the canonry and prebend void by resignation of late Alan Stewart, prebendary and possessor in hands of the ordinary, notwithstanding canonry and prebend of Awncrum in church of Glasgow, which he holds (£15 sterling), anent which and the parish church of Kilmarnock, St Andrews diocese, which he does not possess (£60 sterling), he is litigating in Apostolic Palace in the first instance without conclusion, and that lately Pope granted him provision of canonry and prebend of church of Methlaik in church of Aberdeen, of lay patronage (£25 sterling).

Additionally, the bishop promises that he and his successors will look after their rights.

The perpetual vicarage of Duffus is 'de jure et de facto' vacant because of the death of Johanni de Arde. The canon prebendary {of Duffus}, Johanni de Innes, has been at the Roman Curia prosecuting the bishop's election and so, the bishop has not been in a position to present a perpetual vicar to Duffus in the canon's absence. He now confirms the canon's rights, particularly his right to nominate an individual to the bishop for presentation to the perpetual vicarage. Given in the Cathedral on the same day as {Moray Reg., no. 251} [Moray Reg., no. 252]
Alexander Barbas	Vicar Perpetual	1398	Registrum Episcopatus Moraviensis	326
11398 (1 August) - Responsio by William, bishop of Moray, whereby he records that for many years, during the episcopate of his predecessors Archebaldus, David, Johannes and Alexandri, the right of presentation to the perpetual vicarage of Duffus has been the bishop's, at the instance of the lords of Duffus. The bishop refuses to admit Alexandro Barbas, chaplain, who has been wrongly and without appropriate authority, presented {to the vicarage} by Johannem de Keth, lord of Innerugy, claiming right by the fact that he has half of the barony of Duffus. Given in the Cathedral. [Moray Reg., no. 251] The previous perpetual vicars are listed: Roberto Noche; Johanni Hudson; Thome Boner;Johanni de Duffus; Thome Bur; Johanni de Arde (but are given without dates).
