Henry Wardlaw, de	Canon	1387	Papal Letters to Scotland of Clement VII of Avignon	133
5 Oct - To Henry de Wardlaw, canon of Moray. Permission to retain the canonry of Moray and prebend of Kynnor, vacant by the death of cardinal Walter, to which Henry has been provided by the pope. The office of sacrist is attached to the prebend, which does not involve cure, but is elective, and about which no mention is made in the letters of provision. Henry, who has petitioned for confirmation so as not to be molested over his provision, is described as a scholar of civil law for two years, nephew of the late cardinal, and is said to hold a canonry and prebend of Glasgow [22 Sept., 1379]. Avignon, 3 Non., Oct., anno 9.

5 Oct - To Henry de Wardlaw, canon of Moray. Provision to the canonry of Moray and prebend of Kynnor, vacant by the death of cardinal Walter, notwithstanding that he holds a canonry and prebend of Glasgow [22 Sept, 1379] and has been provided by the pope to the precentorship of Glasgow, then vacant in a certain way, but without yet obtaining possession. Henry, who was the late cardinal's nephew, has studied civil law for two years. Avignon, 3 Non. Oct., anno 9; expedited, 7 Id. Dec., anno 10; consigned, 5 Id. Dec., anno 10. Concurrent mandate to the dean of St Agricola, Avignon, and the officials of St Andrews and Glasgow.

Commissio privationis

It is represented for the part of Ingeram Lyndesay, B.Dec., of noble race, perpetual vicar of the parish church of Munkton, Glasgow diocese, that a certain Adam de Gordon, priest, perpetual vicar of the parish church of Craumond, Dunkeld diocese, violated and ravished a certain young maiden, and, heaping evils upon evils, led by a malign spirit one day he slew with a spade a child which he had in unlawful concubinage, damnably incurring the stain of irregularity, inability and infamy, on account of which he has rendered himself worthy to be deprived of the said vicarage of Craumond. Ingeram therefore supplicates that the Pope would give mandate to some good man in the Roman Court or 'in partibus' that he inform himself diligently anent the foregoing, and if he find some or part thereof to be true that he deprive and remove Adam by apostolic authority and collate, assign and provide Ingeram to the foresaid vicarage (20 marks sterling), void by the above deprivation or by the free resignation of Adam or in whatsoever way: notwithstanding the perpetual vicarage of Munkton, Glasgow diocese, which he holds, and the right which he has in the canonry and prebend of Kynnor in the Church of Moray, which he does not possess and anent which he is litigating 'in partibus' (24 marks sterling), and an annual pension of 20 marks from the monastery of St Thomas the Martyr of Aberbroth, St Andrews diocese, and notwithstanding defect of birth as son of a noble baron and an unmarried woman anent which he is dispensed by the Apostolic See.

Fiat ut petitur pro omnibus tribus in forma juris. O.

Rome, S. Apostoli, 9 Kal. May, anno 11.

[This is the last of the three supplications.]

Surrogatio

In a suit in the Apostolic Palace before a certain auditor pending undecided in second instance, between Ingeram Lyndesay, possessor, on the one hand, and Adam de Gordon on the other, anent canonry and prebend of Kynmore in church of Moray, it had been proceeded to some terms of citation and said Adam, after having carried off a definitive sentence, which passed 'in rem judicatam', died outwith Roman Court, and all right (if any) competent to him in said canonry and prebend is thought to be void, Alexander Lyndesay, treasurer of Aberdeen, M.A., Lic.Dec., to whom Pope formerly granted provision of above canonry and prebend when they should become void by peaceable assecution of precentorship of Moray by said Ingeram by apostolic authority, supplicates that Pope would give mandate to said auditor, or to another by surrogation, that he surrogate Alexander in and to all right competent to Adam at time of his death in said canonry and prebend and provide him to same and admit him to prosecution and defence of the cause in state in which Adam was at time of death, and if it be seen that neither of litigants has right in said canonry and prebend, that he collate, assign and provide Alexander to same (£20 sterling): notwithstanding that Alexander holds treasurership of Aberdeen, a non-major dignity with cure (£20 sterling) and defect of birth as son of an unmarried man and an unmarried woman, anent which he is sufficiently dispensed by apostolic authority.

Si Neutri

On voidance of parish church of Kylmany, St Andrews diocese, by death of John Hawyck, chaplain of Apostolic See, who died on 4th May last outwith Roman Court, Pope on 9th June granted provision to John Wincestre, B.Dec., secretary of James king of Scotland, present in Curia, as in supplication. John supplicates that Pope, ratifying mandate of provision, would provide him by simple or new provision to said church (£60 of old sterling): notwithstanding that he holds canonry and prebend of Methlayck in church of Aberdeen, of lay patronage, and canonry and prebend of Alncrub, in church of Glasgow, and parish church of Glencarn, Glasgow diocese (total, £70 sterling).

Fiat ut petitur pro omnibus viginti et una. G.

Rome, St Peter's, 7 Id. Aug., anno 1.
